PACKAGING

At PharmaCenter, we understand the importance of finding the right packaging for your natural supplement and nutraceutical products. That's why we offer a range of contract packaging capabilities, including blister packaging, pouches, sachets, and bottles. With our expertise, you can find the perfect packaging solution for your products without the guesswork or headaches.

POUCHES

Pouches pack in a lot of benefits for packagers, consumers, and retailers alike. Not only are they taking up less prized shelf space, but they also have a slew of other benefits. Pouches deliver barrier properties to keep the product inside safe from odors, and vapors and can be equipped with a tight seal. What's more is that the availability of dark colors enables the packaging to be opaque, reducing exposure to light. In addition to ensuring product freshness, a great package should communicate what the product is, how to use it, be tamper-evident, and when necessary, be childproof. Pouches offer this. The ability to add sliding zippers, resealable and press to close zippers or simple tear-notches offers cost-effective flexibility that sets pouches apart.

- Keep the product fresh
- Dry environment
- Airtight closure
- Protection from humidity and light
- Large print surface for information and marketing
- Customizability
- Packaged in temperature and humidity controlled clean room
